

Lesley Manson, PsyD, Clinical Associate Professor,
College of Health Solutions, Arizona State University

Dr. Lesley Manson, Psy.D., is an internationally recognized expert in integrated behavioral healthcare with more than 20 years of experience in clinical practice, healthcare leadership, and systems consultation. She specializes in developing fiscally sustainable integrated care models that improve health outcomes, patient engagement, health equity, and return on investment. Dr. Manson serves as Associate Chair of Integrated Initiatives and Clinical Associate Professor in Arizona State University's Doctor of Behavioral Health program and is Director of Training and Implementation Science for NCR Behavioral Health. She is a master trainer in motivational interviewing, clinician-patient communication, and the PROSPER suicide prevention, intervention, and postvention programs. Dr. Manson consults internationally with organizations including CMS, AHRQ, and the CQC, and regularly leads Project ECHOs focused on integrated care and sustainability. She has authored peer-reviewed publications, developed national training programs, and co-authored several books including Integrating Behavioral Health into the Medical Home.